

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

Authentication information encrypted by using a predetermined encryption method is added to contents information. When executing or 5 reproducing the contents information by using an information processing apparatus, a decision is made whether information encrypted by using the predetermined encryption method is contained in acquired information. When such information is not contained, the contents information is not reproduced, executed, or output.

10